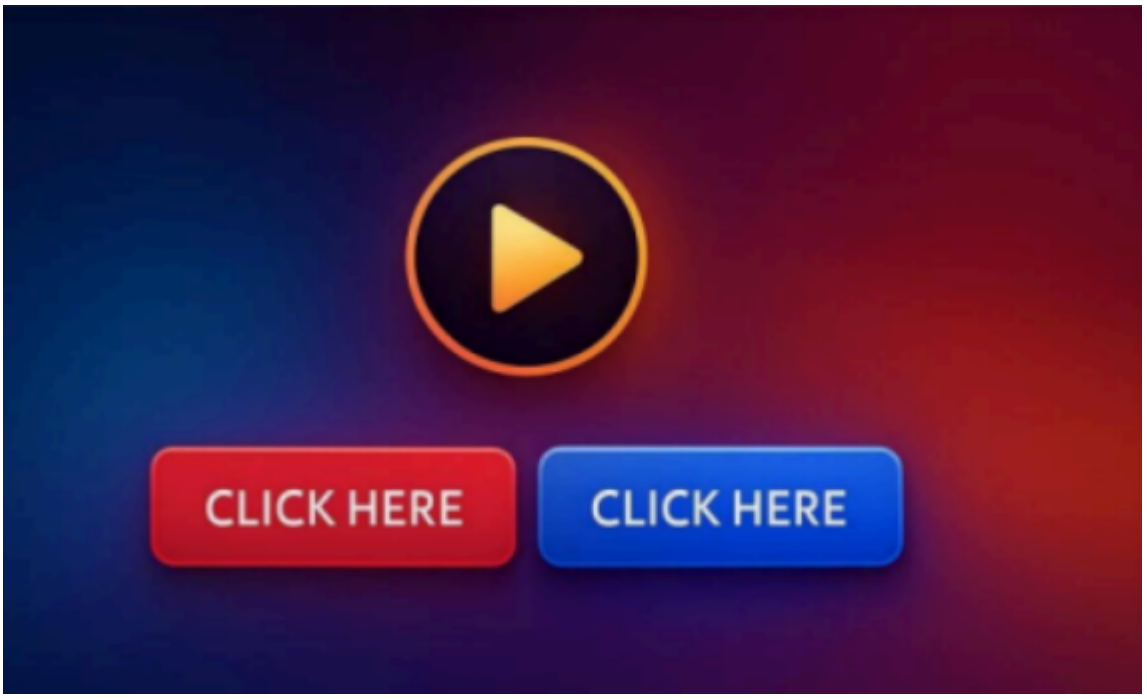
[WATCH-LIVE] Liverpool vs Wrexham Pre-Season Friendly Online Premier League Summer Series Full Game 29-7-2026

Get direct access to the free live stream for Liverpool vs Wrexham today.

Last Update : 29 july 2026



How to watch Liverpool vs Wrexham for FREE in US and UK — TV channel, live stream, team news

Liverpool continues its preseason preparations as it takes on Wrexham in the second game of its United States tour later — or at least, that’s what the Reds are scheduled to do.

Andoni Iraola’s players were due to fly out to New York on Tuesday ahead of Wednesday’s game at Yankee Stadium, but their flight was canceled due to adverse weather conditions, with a heavy thunderstorm in the NYC area.

The Reds will now aim to fly on matchday, which will not be ideal for Iraola and his players, who will be aiming to pick up another win after starting the summer with a 4-2 victory over Sunderland at the weekend.

READ MORE: Liverpool transfer news LIVE: Bradley Barcola agreement, Rayan targeted, New York flight canceled
READ MORE: Liverpool transfer news as Bradley Barcola 'agreement' reached amid Jarell Quansah decision
Here's everything you need to know about how to watch Liverpool vs. Wrexham in the United States and the United Kingdom.

What time is kick-off?

The game kicks off at 7:30 pm local time in New York — that's 4:30 pm Pacific Time.

Fans back in the United Kingdom will have to stay up into the early hours of the morning to watch this one, with the game getting underway at 12:30 am on Thursday. There's a chance the game could be delayed or even canceled due to the adverse weather conditions in the New York metropolitan area.

Is the game on TV?

Fans back in the United Kingdom will be able to watch all the action live via Liverpool's All Red Video service. New users can sign up for a 14-day free trial now, which will give them access to the Reds' preseason fixtures.

Fans subscribed to LFCTV will also be able to watch the game live, while it's also available through the club's official app on both iOS and Android.

The club's live coverage is unfortunately not available in the United States, but fans Stateside can catch all the action via ESPN and ESPN Deportes.

Early team news

Liverpool will likely be without Joe Gomez after the defender was forced off just 10 minutes into Saturday's win over Sunderland. There's still no indication as to how long he will be out for, or what his problem actually is, but he hasn't been seen back in training since then.

Jeremy Jacquet will also be missing as Liverpool remains cautious with the 21-year-old, who hasn't played since February after undergoing surgery on a shoulder injury picked up at Rennes. He should be back for the weekend's game against Leeds though.
Giovanni Leoni and Wataru Endo are close to returns, while Conor Bradley and Hugo Ekitike still have a long way to go as they continue their recoveries.

Florian Wirtz, Alexander Isak and Ryan Gravenberch are all available though after linking up with their teammates in Chicago. Virgil van Dijk and Cody Gakpo have also begun training back at the Reds' AXA Training Centre on Merseyside, but will not be making the trip over to the US.
Liverpool squad for U.S. tour: Gomez, Endo, Jacquet, Kerkez, Szoboszlai, Bradley, Chiesa, Leoni, Jones, Elliott, Tsimikas, Ekitike, Mamardashvili, Woodman, Frimpong, Abe, Nyoni, Bajcetic, Chambers, Ramsay, Scanlon, McConnell, Jaros, Koumas, Morrison, Ngumoha, W. Wright, Hall, Sonni-Lambie, Ndukwe, Davies, Wirtz, Isak, Gravenberch

Where to watch Liverpool vs. Wrexham live stream, TV channel, start time for summer friendly

Where to watch Liverpool vs. Wrexham live stream, TV channel, start time for summer friendly originally appeared on The Sporting News. Add The Sporting News as a Preferred Source by clicking here.

Global soccer is headed to the Big Apple this week, as Liverpool and Wrexham will go head-to-head in a friendly at Yankee Stadium on Wednesday.

Liverpool is coming off of a solid 4-2 win over Sunderland on Saturday night, marking the club's first victory under new manager Andoni Iraola. The Reds will be even stronger this week following the return of Alexander Isak, Florian Wirtz and Ryan Gravenberch, who are wrapping up their extended post-World Cup breaks.

The Red Dragons are also looking strong already, going undefeated so far in preseason. Phil Parkinson's squad barely missed qualifying for the Championship playoffs in the 2025-26 season, and they'll be looking for redemption and to go one step further next term.

Who will take the win in this friendly match?

Here's everything you need to know about Liverpool vs. Wrexham, including TV channel and streaming options for the club friendly.

Liverpool vs. Wrexhamlive stream, TV channel
Here's how to watch this match in English the U.S.:

TV channel: ESPN

Live stream: fubo, ESPN app

The summer friendly between Liverpool and Wrexham will be available to watch on ESPN with live stream options on the ESPN app and fubo.

Fubo offers a free trial for new subscribers, so you can try the service before you buy. Stream ESPN, ABC, CBS, Fox and 100+ top channels of live TV and sports without cable. (Participating plans only. Taxes and fees may apply.)

What time does Liverpool vs. Wrexhamkick off?
This clash will take place at Yankee Stadium in New York City and kicks off on Wednesday, July 29 at 7:30 p.m. local time.

Here's how that time translates across the U.S.:

You can watch Wrexham vs Liverpool streaming live for free tonight - Here’s how EFL Championship side Wrexham continue their United States tour tonight with a marquee friendly against the reigning Premier League champions Liverpool at Yankee Stadium in New York City. The match gives Wrexham another opportunity to test itself against elite opposition, while Liverpool continues its preparations for the upcoming Premier League season. The first pitch is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. PT/7:30 p.m. ET (5:30 p.m. MST) on Wednesday, July 29, and is broadcast on ESPN and streaming live on ESPN Unlimited.

Is Wrexham vs. Liverpool on TV tonight, or is it streaming only? What time does it start?
This match is available both broadcast on ESPN and streaming live on ESPN Unlimited.

TV Channel: ESPN

Live Stream: ESPN Unlimited

When: 4:30 p.m. PT/7:30 p.m. ET (5:30 p.m. MST) on Wednesday, July 29

Where: Yankee Stadium in New York City

What are the best deals to watch the Wrexham vs. Liverpool match tonight?
You can also watch this game live for FREE with DirecTV (free trial). DIRECTV is offering new promotional pricing on all plans.

You can sign up for ESPN Unlimited for $29.99 a month or $129.99 annually. You will get all of the ESPN networks and channels, including ESPN, ESPN2, ESPNU, ESPNEWS, ESPN Deportes, SEC Network, ACC Network, ESPN+, ESPN on ABC, SEC Network+, ACC Network Now, and ESPN3.

DISH has a variety of subscription options to fit your programming needs. The America’s Top 200 and America’s Top 250 plans are eligible for $250 in savings right now through August 12, 2026.

How to watch Liverpool vs Wrexham: Live stream details as Premier League big-hitters take on Championship hopefuls

Liverpool are looking to follow up on their win against Sunderland just a few days ago

Watch Liverpool vs Wrexham today as Andoni Iraola continues to settle into his new role, as FourFourTwo brings you all the details on live streams and TV channels, wherever you are in the world.

Liverpool saw off fellow Premier League outfit Sunderland just a few days ago as new boss Iraola continues to get to grips with his new side.

Wrexham have beaten both Manchester United and Leeds United so far this summer, as they eye another crack at promotion to the Premier League.

Read on as FourFourTwo brings you all the information you need to watch Liverpool vs Wrexham online and from anywhere.

Can I watch Liverpool vs Wrexham for free?

Unfortunately, Liverpool vs Wrexham is not being broadcast free-to-air. But you can get a 14-day free trial on LFCTV via their monthly pass.

Abroad? Watch from anywhere in the world with NordVPN.

Away from home right now? You don't have to miss Liverpool vs Wrexham. The solution to your geo-restriction nightmares is a Virtual Private Network (VPN), a piece of software that can set your devices to appear to be in any country in the world.

FourFourTwo's tech-obsessed office-mates over at Tom's Guide know everything there is to know about VPNs, and they rate NordVPN as the best VPN you can buy.

▸ Liverpool vs Wrexham will be shown in the UK and internationally on both LFCTV and iFollow Wrexham.

LFCTV is Liverpool's in-house television service, and a subscription for the year will set you back £42.99 or £4.99 a month. The monthly option also offers a 14-day free trial.

Wrexham's iFollow streaming service is another alternative, with a Match Pass available to watch the game in the UK for only £4.99.

▸ The match is also being shown in Australia (Stan Sport and beIN Sports) and in the US (ESPN - $12.99/month).

Abroad? Watch Liverpool vs Wrexham online from anywhere with NordVPN.

The Reds beat Sunderland 4-2 just a few days ago, but the headlines continue to be centred around their summer business.

Rumours are swirling that PSG winger Bradley Barcola is set to join the club, as Iraola eyes a huge coup in his tenure.

Stalwarts such as Mohamed Salah and Andy Robertson have left the club, so the room for personnel is no greater than it is now.

Alisson is no younger and seems to be facing stiff competition from Giorgi Mamardashvili, although there is some talk the Brazillian is set to get the nod, for now.

Should I use a VPN to watch football
Wrexham are still under the watchful eye of Phil Parkinson and went close to grabbing a play-off spot in the Championship last season.

They've already beaten two well-established Premier League clubs in Manchester United and Leeds United this summer.

The latter was a 3-2 win over Daniel Farke's men, whilst the win over the Red Devils was a snooze-fest in comparison.

Crystal Palace defender Danny Imray is set to join the Championship club, according to reports, marking their first summer incoming.

Liverpool 3-1 Wrexham

Wrexham will put up a good fit but Liverpool's class will shine through in this one.

Watch live: Liverpool v Wrexham in New York

Watch Liverpool’s pre-season game against Wrexham in New York live on All Red Video.

The Reds’ second fixture of their trip to the USA will be played at the famous Yankee Stadium – kick-off 12.30am BST on Thursday (July 30).

Our live coverage begins an hour earlier, with All Red Full and Video members able to watch it online

How to watch Liverpool vs Wrexham: TV channel and live stream for pre-season friendly today

Liverpool continue their pre-season tour of the United States as they take on Wrexham today.

The Reds play at the famous Yankee Stadium in The Bronx neighbourhood of New York City, New York, where they face their Championship opponents.

Andoni Iraola has come in to replaced the departed Arne Slot, who was sacked earlier this summer, and the Merseyside club embark on a new chapter.

The Spaniard has had to be patient for any new signings, with only Victor Munoz through the door to date.

There are still holes in the Liverpool squad, with a gaping vacancy left by Mohamed Salah, who departed after the expiry of his contract in June.

They are reported to be targeting Paris Saint-Germain's Bradley Barcola as their primary target, having missed out on RB Leipzig winger Yan Diomande, who is believed to be off to Real Madrid.

They beat Sunderland 4-2 in their first match in the US, as Iraola took the reins for the first proper time, while Wrexham come into this off the back of two scalps against top-flight opposition.

Phil Parkinson's side defeated Manchester United 1-0 in Helsinki, Finland before an entertaining 3-2 victory against Leeds United in Tampa, Florida.

Where to watch Liverpool vs Wrexham Live stream

Is Liverpool vs Wrexham on TV? How to watch and live stream

All you need to know about how to watch the pre-season friendly between Liverpool and Wrexham in New York City

Is Liverpool vs Wrexham on TV?
Kick-off time: The friendly clash between Liverpool and Wrexham is set for Thursday, July 30. For fans tuning in from the UK, the match begins late at night, with the whistle scheduled for 12.30am UK time.
Location: The stateside match will be hosted at the world-famous Yankee Stadium in New York City, serving as a stop on both teams' American tours. Typically renowned for hosting Major League Baseball's New York Yankees, the arena will be temporarily reconfigured to accommodate both sides.
UK television channel: British supporters looking for a standard TV broadcast can catch every moment live by subscribing to LFCTV's All Red channel. The official broadcast will start at exactly midnight, giving fans half an hour of expert analysis and pre-game discussions before the match gets underway.
Live stream information: If you prefer to watch the game online, digital avenues like Wrexham AFC Live and the All Red Video app have you covered. These subscription-based streams can be accessed via smart device applications or by visiting the clubs' dedicated websites on any standard web browser.
Radio coverage: For those without access to video, live audio play-by-play is also an option. The official LFC App will supply free global radio commentary, and Wrexham supporters can listen in via the club's homepage at wrexhamafc.co.uk.
Liverpool team news: The Reds are dealing with a depleted squad on the American trip, missing Jayden Danns to a nagging hamstring issue and Hugo Ekitike to a severe Achilles injury. Furthermore, new signing Jeremy Jacquet remains a question mark due to a shoulder setback, and big names like Virgil van Dijk have been granted extra time off after their summer international duties. However, the squad will receive a welcome lift with Alexander Isak, Florian Wirtz, and Ryan Gravenberch rejoining the ranks.
Wrexham team news: Manager Phil Parkinson might give the nod to Nathan Broadhead, Bailey Cadamarteri, and Kieffer Moore from the opening whistle. At the back, Lewis Brunt, Dominic Hyam, and Zak Vyner are also strong candidates to earn valuable minutes against Andoni Iraola's Liverpool side.

What channel is Liverpool v Wrexham pre-season friendly on? TV coverage, live stream and kick-off time

Check out how to watch Liverpool v Wrexham in 2026/27 pre-season match, including TV channel, radio coverage and kick-off time.

Liverpool continue their build up to the new campaign with a friendly against Wrexham in New York in the early hours of Thursday morning.

The Andoni Iraola era began with a bang as the Reds ran out 4-2 winners against Premier League rivals Sunderland in the opening match of their USA pre-season tour last Saturday.

Kieran Morrison, Dominik Szoboszlai, Federico Chiesa and Lewis Koumas were on target, although the win was overshadowed by Joe Gomez suffering an injury in the opening stages.

Liverpool new boy Jeremy Jacquet missed the match and is unlikely to feature against Wrexham as Iraola has pencilled in the centre-back to make his bow against Leeds at the weekend.

Championship Wrexham are spying their third Premier League scalp of the summer after beating Manchester United and Leeds.

Striker Sam Smith scored the winning goal in both games and will hope to start after coming off the bench against Leeds last weekend.